

INFORMATION SECURITY NETWORK

Information security and data protection

ARE YOUR COMPANY ASSETS SECURE?

Security is a basic need – for people and increasingly also for companies. Work and business processes are largely based on IT solutions, which increase exposure to risks of attack as a result. Information processing can be a high risk factor if it is not protected adequately. Increasing pressure to ensure security is felt not only by IT departments, but also by managing directors and board members.

In order to support Upper Austrian companies in their technical, organisational and legal challenges in the areas of information security and data protection, the Information Security Network (ISN) has been designed as a gateway and orientation guidance for providers.

- Hub for providers and users in the field of information security and data protection
- Raising awareness and support for Upper Austrian companies
- Networking national and international organisations, clusters and companies
- Know-how transfer and cooperation: initiation and monitoring of cooperative projects
- International visibility and strengthening of regional security industry
